Oldest Resident Passes Away

Mr. A. K. Franklin, probably the oldest resident in the district, passed away at the age of 85 years and 5 months, at his home in East Didsbury on Saturday evening, January 7th, 1933.

Aaron Kiffor Franklin was born in Ohio in 1847. He served in the 11th Illinois Cavalry during the Civil War in the United States, and is the last member of his regiment to be called to his final resting place.

In 1868 he moved to Nebraska and while residing there married Mrs. Sarah Dunn in 1872. After their marriage they moved to Kansas where they resided until 1904, when they moved to Alberta, being among the first settlers in the Cremona district. After residing on a farm there for three years they moved to Didsbury, where they have since resided.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding last March.

During his long residence here Mr. Franklin had acquired many friends and was highly respected by all with whom he came in contact.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Sam E., of Didsbury and Charles W., of Cremona, and one daughter, Mrs. A. A. Stauffer, of Didsbury. Also eleven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held at his residence on Monday, January 9th, 1933, the Rev. V. K. Snyder officiating, and interment was made in the Didsbury cemetery.

The pallbearers, Messrs. Adhead, Kaufman, Mortimer, Morgan, Pitt and Galtie, were all members of the Canadian Legion and officiated in honor of an old soldier. Dr. H. C. Liesmer, who conducted the "Last Post" at the graveside.

St. Cyprian's Church Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of St. Cyprian's Anglican Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Booker on Friday evening last. Rev. A. D. Currie, of Crossfield, who took charge of the mission as from the first of the year, was in the chair.

Mr. Booker was appointed rector's warden. It was decided to approach an absent member to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. J. D. Thomas.

The following were elected to the vestry: Messrs. E. K. Pratt, J. D. Thomas, J. W. Rupp, R. Barrett, A. Ordo, H. Welch, J. Scratton and W. R. Hartley.

The annual meeting of the W. A. was held the same evening. The secretary's report showed that under the trying conditions of the times, the W. A. activities had been very successful during the year. Mrs. Carleton was elected president for 1933 and Mrs. Lowrie re-elected secretary.

REIST—CHAMBERLAIN

On January 5th, 1933 at 2:30 p.m. the M.R.C. Church at Didsbury became the scene of an attractive winter wedding, when Mr. Elmer Reist, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Reist, and Miss Olive Grace Chamberlain, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chamberlain, were united in holy matrimony by the Reverend C. J. Hallman.

A large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties witnessed the impressive ceremony, which was prefaced with a solo, "Calm as the Night," by Behm, sung by Miss O. Pearl Reist, sister of the groom. The bride party entered to strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," played by Miss Ruby Tandy. The bride was given in marriage by her father. After the taking of the vows by Rev. C. J. Hallman, the hymn, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," was sung by Miss Reist.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Chamberlain, and the groom was attended by his lifelong friend, Mr. Aylmer Snyder. The ushers were Mr. Arthur Chamberlain, Jr., brother of the bride, and Mr. Herb Dedels.

A gown of white felt crepe and a veil of beautiful lace, with a wreath of orange blossoms, were worn by the charming bride. A strand of large crystals was her only ornament. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, buds and carnations. The bridesmaid wore an ensemble of light blue and white felt crepe, with a white felt hat and carried white carnations.

After the ceremony a company of twenty-six guests retired to the home of the bride's parents, where they partook of a beautiful 3-course dinner. Besides members of the immediate families of the bride and groom, other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain, of Calgary; Rev. and Mrs. Hallman; Glenn Hallman; Mrs. Florence Finlay, recently returned from Africa; Miss Ruby Traub; Mr. Aylmer Snyder and Mr. Herb Dedels.

Immediately after the dinner the bride and groom left for Calgary on a brief honeymoon and upon their return will reside on a farm east of Didsbury.

Evangelical Ladies Aid Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Evangelical Church Ladies Aid and Women's Missionary Society met in the church January 5th.

The reports of the past year were very encouraging. Many activities had been engaged in successfully, and the financial standing, in spite of the depression, was reported as splendid. Great credit is due the executive of 1932 for the good work done.

The one note of regret throughout the whole meeting was sounded when Mrs. Geo. Liesmer, who has been secretary for quite a number of years, requested the withdrawal of her name for further office.

Rev. H. J. Wool, after a few words of appreciation of the work, presided at the election of officers, which resulted as follows: president, Mrs. Berscht; vice-president, Mrs. H. J. Wool; recording secretary, Mrs. E. N. Baettger; ladies aid treasurer, Mrs. E. Rieder; W.M.S. treasurer, Mrs. L. Thaler; pianist, Mrs. G. Liesmer; asst. pianist, Mrs. H. J. Palpitation of the Heart Nerves Bad - Could Not Sleep

Mrs. Fred Bingham, Swift Current, Sask., writes:—"I was bothered with palpitation of the heart, and my nerves were so bad I could not sleep."

"I was getting desperate and confided my trouble to a friend who recommended me to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I purchased a box and got such relief I would gladly recommend them to all who are troubled as I was."

What Really Counts?

What is the thing that really counts in your life?

Many people who had always accepted what life brought to them from day to day without giving much thought to the matter are in these times, as a result of experiences through which they or relatives and close friends are passing, or as the outcome of their reading and observation, being compelled by the very impact and force of present conditions to seriously ask themselves what, after all, is the thing that really counts in my life?

Take the case of a man known to the writer. Having for more than a quarter of a century held responsible positions in one of our Western Provinces, and received a very gratifying salary, he suddenly found himself three years ago thrown out of his employment. Since then he has had no secured position but has employed his energies in various ways and in return for such remuneration as it was possible to obtain.

Today his income is at its lowest point yet touched. He is aware it may further shrink if not entirely disappear, as has been the experience of so many.

During these past three years this man has seen the value of such property as he possessed reduced to fifty cents on the dollar of its former value, and it is presently unobtainable at such a reduced figure. Such reserves as he was able to build up are steadily disappearing, and he is now approaching three score years in age.

His he become discouraged, embittered, railing at his fate, and ready to turn and rend anybody else, or some institution or corporation, or the whole system of economics and government under which he lives, which he himself helped to build up, and under which he is now sustaining loss where formerly he profited? That is, does he regard material things as the things that really count? No, although he cannot see light ahead at the end of the tunnel through which the world is passing, he is not discouraged nor embittered. He has not the slightest desire "to take it out" on anybody else. While recognizing no very obscure person and student of affairs must recognize that changes and reforms are urgently, imperatively required in our social, economic and political structure, he also recognizes that he must accept his full share of the responsibility for the mistakes of the past, and that, instead of throwing all the blame on the system, or on those whom he assisted to place in positions of authority to administer that system, some of that blame must be apportioned to himself. If others made mistakes, so did he, and he is fair enough to admit it. He realizes where he made mistakes, not deliberately, but in the belief that he was doing the wise thing, but mistakes nevertheless. Why then lay all the blame on the system he helped to create and develop, which for years he upheld, or upon those who now in charge of that system and struggling against an accumulation of past mistakes, his own included, as well as the mistakes of others in far-distant lands over which they have no control but whose mistakes react upon us, as ours react upon them?

This man is no high idealist. He has a healthy respect for the purely material things of life. He enjoyed them in the past; he acutely misses them now; he hopes to enjoy them again. But he has learned to realize that, after all, they are not what really count in life. He has health, and when he sees others in sickness, possibly suffering and slowly dying of an incurable disease, he is thankful for something far exceeding great riches. If he alone had suffered loss, he might feel embittered. But when he sees countless thousands who have sustained similar, possibly greater losses, he feels no bitterness, but a new and greater sympathy with everybody else. His old indifference to many questions and problems, his reluctance to give of his time, talents and energy to their solution, has passed away. He is not "so busy" now, with his own selfish concern that he has no time to devote to public and community affairs. He has discovered that something much larger and infinitely more important than himself and his personal affairs.

He may not weather the storms of the depression in which he, with so many others, is engulfed, although he is not the type to give up. But while a loser in one sense, he is a gainer in another, and the whole world is the gainer too. The universal experience of being something is having a human being effect not only on this man, but on hundreds of men and women. Fuzzed as they may be by present conditions, the youth of today will be stronger than those of the past generation who were cradled in the lap of prosperity, if, indeed, not of luxury.

From the experiences of the present it is not possible that we all may learn that it is not what happens to us but what happens within us in times of stress that determines whether we are defeated or victorious; that whether we win or lose does not matter so much, but rather how we bear the battle through.

Hard On the Fixers

Pittsburg Issues Tripled Ticket For Violation Of Traffic

Something new in "tags" for traffic violations as ticket which authorities may "can't be fixed," has been introduced in Pittsburg. The new tag is issued in triplicate, the copy going to the offender, another to the traffic court, and a third to the controller, who will be obliged to check back on every ticket issued. "Now," said one traffic officer, "we'll see if the fixers and their political friends can get around this one."

Have Stood Heavy Loss

British Steel Firm Drops £27,000 On Bridge Contract

Five companies of any size have escaped the toll of heavy losses in the last year or two. An outstanding case is that of the Dorman, Long Company of London, England, one of the foremost iron and steel companies in the world. Contracting for the construction of the great bridge over the harbor at Sydney, Australia, the company admits dropping £27,000 on a £125,000 project. Depreciation, during the four years construction period, and adverse exchange rates, are said to have contributed largely to the loss.

May Broadcast Power Without Any Wires

Young Kitchener Inventor Claims He Has Discovered Method

Two years of experimenting have resulted in his discovery of a method to transmit electric power long distances without wires, is the claim of 22-year-old Frank Fedy of Kitchener, Ontario.

Fedy, a former insurance agent, said he demonstrated his equipment for engineers in Toronto and that his apparatus functioned perfectly. Power broadcast from his transmitting stations was picked up two blocks distant.

An engineer who was in Kitchener from Toronto admitted that the experiment showed Fedy "has something." The young inventor is going to Montreal to demonstrate there. He visualized a central transmitting station in Kitchener, which would broadcast electricity to heat and light homes in the city and in the surrounding country for a radius of 100 miles.

An aerial on the roof of a house, similar to a radio antenna would take the power from the air.

A receiving unit could be manufactured to sell as little as $5, the inventor said. He added he has secured financial backing in Toronto to the extent of $30,000.

For two years after he graduated from St. Jerome's College at Kitchener, Fedy worked as a sales agent "just to pay expenses" so he could continue his experiment in the privacy of his boarding house bedroom. In July he met with an automobile accident, which rendered him blind for a month. His eyeghts are, yet completely restored, but he has finished his invention.

Too Good To Be True

New Method Claimed To Cut Auto Oil Bill In Two

The possibility of cutting automobile oil bills in half by a new method of refining oil was predicted at a meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by William F. Parish and Leon Cammen of New York. The report, however, was criticized by a half dozen other speakers, who held the claims were "amazing" and "doubtful."

The Parish-Cammen report said that under the new system the crankcase will never have to be drained, and the engine will develop more power and use less gasoline.

Ten years of practical tests were cited to back their contention that in all kinds of engines and under all varieties of road conditions nearly all kinds of oil can be made by the new process to out-perform anything now produced.

The oil in these tests was crankcase drainings, the mucky stuff motorists throw away. Parish and Cammen cleaned this oil and in all cases claimed to have brought forth a better lubricant than the original.

Worms however generated, around in the digestive tracts, where they set up disturbances detrimental to the health of the child. There can be no comfort for the little ones until the harmful intruders have been expelled. An excellent preparation for this purpose can be had in Miller's Worm Powder. They will immediately destroy the worms and correct the conditions that were favorable to their existence.

A Strange Story

Family Living Near Chicago Had Never Seen Street Cars, Moving Pictures Or Radio

The strange story of an isolation so complete that none of a family of nine children has ever seen a moving picture, a street car or radio, although they have lived all their lives near Chicago, came to light recently. They are the children of Joseph Steif, ex, a farmer of Wheeling, Ill., who came to the United States 30 years ago from Russia.

The story was revealed when Steif appealed to police to find his oldest child, Mary, aged 23, who fled from her home. The authorities were told the left because a dove flew around her head and she regarded this as an evil omen. She later was found at the home of a neighbor.

Tells Of Life In Russia

Communists Small Percentage Of Population Says J. McLaughlin

Expressing a lack of faith in the Russian five-year plan and voicing the opinion "there is probably as big a percentage of Communists in Vancouver as in Russia," J. A. McLaughlin, British Columbia mining engineer, says he recently returned from a two-thirds residence in Russia, told Vancouver Board of Trade members of life as he found it in that country.

"You have to realize that there are only about 3,000,000 Communists in Russia, a country of 165,000,000 people. The Communist Central Committee is in complete control. The political police have the authority and people live in terror of them," he said.

Mr. McLaughlin went to Russia as engineer on a copper mine development proposition for which the five-year plan called for production of 10,000 tons refined copper annually. But in two years only 600 tons in all were produced.

Celebrates Anniversary

Lethbridge Herald Completes 25 Years As Daily Newspaper

Rounding out a quarter century of continuous publication as a daily newspaper, the Lethbridge Herald issued a special 25th anniversary edition recently, in which appeared many congratulatory messages from Canadian public men and newspaper publishers to Senator W. A. Buchanan, publisher.

The Herald was first established as a weekly paper in the autumn of 1905 by Senator Buchanan, of Cranbrook, B.C., and W. A. Buchanan came from St. Thomas, Ont., and purchased a half interest. Later he acquired the entire property and, on December 11, 1907, launched the Herald as a daily newspaper.

Members of the Western Associated Press from its inception and later of the Canadian Press when eastern and western Canadian co-operative news services were merged, the Herald has received a full leased wire press service since 1917.

No Time For Drifting

Unity Of Effort Should Be Aim Of Every Statesman

Over from England to join his wife in the United States, Viscount Astor says "We must do something definite, or there will be trouble."

One of the main obstacles is that whenever any States leader suggests anything, all his political enemies join forces to knock him down. It is time the so-called statesmen realized the folly of that course. This is an hour when unity of effort should be made, even if it does involve the sacrifice of some temporary political advantage.

Not Greatly Impressed

An American in England was giving some illustrations of the size of his country.

"You can board a train in the State of Texas at dawn," he said, impressively, and twenty-four hours later you'll be in Texas!"

"Yes," said one of his English listeners, with feeling, "we've got trains like that here, too."

Bank's Warning on Currency Inflation

BANK OF MONTREAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal, held at the Bank's headquarters, was largely attended. The report and statement of account, particularly of the currency, which had been published, were unanimously adopted, and the retiring directors were unanimously re-elected.

Sir Charles Gordon, the president, said that during the year they had been confronted with declining trade, debased foreign exchange, lessened demand for banking accommodation and low rates of interest in the world's monetary centres; yet the Bank had managed to earn fair profits to preserve a strong liquid position and to meet the legitimate requirements of their customers.

Mr. J. G. King, joint general manager with Jackson Doidge, said in part:

"Your Bank has come through this period with undiminished prestige, for it can be claimed without exaggeration that events have only served to emphasize the important and outstanding position which it occupies in the business affairs of this country."

Both the President and the General Manager came out strongly against any inflation of currency in Canada, as had been advocated in some quarters in connection with a suggested establishment of a national central bank. Sir Charles Gordon said that in 1891, when the provisions of the Finance Act, Canada had had all the advantages of the world's money market, the central bank, the legislation having admirably performed its purpose in this respect. Monopoly of note issues by the Government, he declared, would not increase by a single dollar the amount of currency in the hands of the public, and the notes were made irredeemable and recklessly emitted. From the time of the French Revolution in the 18th century, he said, the shores of financial history was strewn with irredeemable currencies, in irredeemable paper money, and if there was one fact in finance more firmly fixed than one, it was the fact that the unrestricted issue of paper money culminated in disaster. He added:

"I may point out, moreover, that we in Canada do not suffer from inadequate credit, or inadequate currency. Our banks, welcome borrowers to whom they can safely lend, and as trustees of depositors from whom the banking resources are derived, banks ought not to lend on any other condition. So long as our banking system is concerned, it is well to remember that not a single depositor has had to sue for money, or get his money from a Canadian bank during the past year, while tens of thousands of depositors in the United States have had to wait in line only to be told finally that their bank had closed its doors. This fact is an argument that will appeal to most people."

World Problems

The return of prosperity to Britain and all other countries depends first and foremost on the achievement of some international agreements to relieve the burden and the increase of armaments to remove the incubus of debts, to remedy the causes which have thrown the currencies of half the world into the melting pot and to cut the bonds which strangle international trade.

Simple and Sure, Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is so simple an application that a child can get the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Something Else Needed

CONSTIPATION

The Stratosphere Holds Secrets Of Many Things Which Are Puzzling Scientists.

How far can man penetrate into the upper air?

The stratosphere, as the upper reaches of the atmosphere are called, begins at a height of ten kilometres, or about six and a quarter miles above sea-level. At the moment the highest point reached by man is 53,472 feet, or just over ten miles, which was attained by Professor Piccard in his second balloon ascent.

But the exploration of the stratosphere is only beginning. It holds the secrets of many things which puzzle the scientists, and Professor Piccard believes that to uncover these secrets many new ascents must be made.

One of them, he thinks, should be undertaken in the Arctic regions and he has suggested the Hudson Bay district as a suitable starting-point. Probably some of the scientists now engaged in "Polar Year" researches would be the best men to make the attempt. They have the necessary scientific training, and at the same time are equipped with knowledge of the Arctic regions, and could fend for themselves in the event of the balloon coming down far from civilization in the midst of the polar waste.

Aeroplanes also can penetrate the stratosphere, and the aeroplane altitude record for Britain by ascending 43,976 feet, or almost exactly eight and a half miles.

He would have gone still higher, but his gasoline was getting low. However, he will probably make another ascent shortly and try again.

In a previous flight Capt. Cuvins climbed beyond 40,000 feet without knowing it. His altimeter stopped at 30,000 feet, and he came to the conclusion that, for some reason, his machine was unable to climb beyond that. So he abandoned his attempt and landed. Then it was discovered, on examination of the barograph, that he had been nearly eight miles up.

The tremendously low temperatures of the upper atmosphere have always been a big problem in high altitude flying. Not only do they sometimes put instruments out of action, but unless elaborate precautions are taken, they would put the pilot out of action, too. So his clothing has to be electrically heated, the waistcoat, socks, and fur gloves being threaded with fine wires for this purpose. The goggles have also to be treated electrically to prevent ice forming on them. For breathing, oxygen is necessary, and is often sent through a chin and mouth mask. Answers.

Has Many Occupations

King Albert Of Belgium Was Once Newspaper Reporter

King Albert of Belgium is probably the only king who has been a newspaper reporter. Before he ascended to the throne he toured Europe, writing articles on shipping problems for a Belgian newspaper.

And once, when he paid a visit to America, he got a temporary job on a New York newspaper. He reported several events and no one on the staff knew his identity.

Then one day he was sent out to report a fire and came back without a story. He had forgotten his police card and was not allowed by the police to collect any information!

But since then Belgium's king has had a fling at many occupations. He has labored on Antwerp docks. He has driven locomotives. He has fired steel turnouts and he has descended into mines and hunked away at the face of coal seams.

Why Jury Duty Is Unpopular

Bless Or Death Only Means Accepted For Exemption

An Ontario judge refused to grant exemption from jury duty to a man who explained that if he had to serve, 22 men working for him, would be thrown out of employment temporarily, jury service, said the judge, necessarily called for sacrifice, and only illness or death could be advanced as legitimate reasons for liberation from such service.

It seems to us the judge in this incident took a highly technical and yet wholly practical view of the situation. There was but one man who could keep those 22 at work, and no doubt many men were available who would have served the cause of justice equally well as a member of this jury. It was surely a case where the theoretical obligation of all citizens to do jury duty when called upon might have been tempered by the urgent importance of permitting men to earn wages when they can find work.

Jury duty would be less unpopular if courts had a little more consideration for the comfort and convenience of jurors. Most juries serve at a financial sacrifice. They are guarded like prisoners, reprimanded publicly if late for roll-call, kept together for days at a time in important criminal cases. No doubt all this is necessary, justified by experience. But often men on the jury panel are compelled to remain within call when they might be released for a day or two, or as in the case we have mentioned, forced to serve when there is excellent reason for release. A little more thought for the individual would make for greater smoothness in operation of this part of the judicial machine.—Ottawa Journal.

New Radio Policy

Will Likely Follow Plan Adopted By British Broadcasting Company

The radio commission of Canada will probably follow the policy adopted by the British Broadcasting Company in connection with the handling of election speeches. Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the newly-formed body, declares, in the United Kingdom, he explained, leaders and organizers of political parties are requested to prepare on certain periods for broadcasting election speeches, so that other programmes are not seriously interfering with.

The rule concerning advertising content to five per cent, of each programme would be rigidly adhered to, Mr. Charlesworth declared, "but we must of necessity allow some time to Canadian advertisers; if not, they would be placed at an unfair advantage with U.S. advertisers. My idea with regard to the situation is that no Canadian station shall broadcast advertising in connection with a product that is not Canadian, or at least the product of a branch factory in this country."

Principles Of Grading

Incentive To Quality Production Which Brings Better Prices

The grading of farm products as carried out under the administration of the Dominion Live Stock Branch is based on the principle that it is sound business to classify live stock and live stock products in such a way that the consumer will be able to recognize and purchase quality products, and that the price premium which the consumer will pay for the better grades should be returned to the producer of them. Practice has proven the value of the theory involved in the grading principle. Grading activities have been a tremendous incentive to quality production, with resultant price benefit to producers.

All Efforts Made By Australia To Exterminate Rabbit Pest Have So Far Proved Unavailing

Literature On Down Grade

Poor Quality Of Books Now Being Published

There never was a better time than the present for aspiring young authors but they seem to be coming forward slowly, in the opinion of Henry L. Mencken, noted author and editor.

Giving his views on the literary state of the United States he pointed out half a dozen books of excellent quality have been published during the last year, but certainly there has been no such upsurge of really first rate newwriters as we saw in the first years of the century, and again in the first years of the war," Mr. Mencken added.

The American novel is in a very flabby condition and American poetry is almost dead, he thinks. The hard times have nothing to do with the matter. Publishers are turning out many books the same as ever but most of these are bad. A fault, he does not attribute to the publishers. They would print better ones if they could get them.

Smallest Quantity Of Light Measured

Apparatus Catches Flow Of Three Electrons Every Minute

The smallest quantity of light ever detected electrically—that of the flow of three electrons every minute—has been caught and measured at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas.

The apparatus reaches farther out into the invisible than previous instruments by combining a photoelectric cell with a cosmic ray counter. It was described in the physical review by Gordon L. Locher of the Institute and of the Bartol Research Foundation of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

How slight is a ray may be visualized from the fact that the ordinary dull red glow of a radio tube is the flow of about 100,000 electrons not in a minute, but in a second.

Who Gets the Four?

Matter Of Discount On Canadian Dollar Is Confusing

Some confusion is apt to arise from the varying quotations on New York funds and the Canadian dollar. At times the quotation is given as premium on New York funds and at other times it is the discount on the Canadian dollar. A Canadian who goes to New York with $100 and asks for United States money for his own may find the discount on his funds as high as 20 per cent, and he receives $80. If he returns home without spending his $80 of American money and the rate is the same, he receives only $96 in Canadian funds. In order to get back his full $100 the premium would have to be 25 per cent. Who gets the other $4?

CANADIAN AND AUSTRALIAN DELEGATES URGE CAUTION

The serious situation arising in the League of Nations Assembly over the Japanese-Chinese deadlock caused Right Hon. Stanley Bruce of Australia (left) and Hon. C. H. Cahoon of Canada (right), to urge the League not to do anything which would be offensive to Japan and cause a war in the Far East.

"The problem facing Australia at this time is the great army of rabbits with which the continent is infested," said the Hon. T. S. Gordon, of Sydney, passing through New York on his way to England with his daughter, Miss V. E. Gordon. "We are trying in every way to cut down their great numbers, but they multiply so quickly that our efforts to decimate them make no noticeable reductions in the furry tribe. There are still hundreds of millions of them. A pair of rabbits will produce six litters of young ones in a year and each litter will average five rabbits. As soon as the bunnies are six months old they begin to breed. In five years a single pair of rabbits will increase to ten million pairs. Seven rabbits eat daily as much food as would keep one sheep."

Rabbits were first brought to Australia by a farmer near Melbourne, according to Mr. Gordon. He wanted something to remind him of his home and the good old English sport of chasing the hare. He sent to England for a pair of rabbits and in due course they arrived. He turned them loose. In a year or so he could go hunting with considerable success. He soon found, however, that the rabbits had multiplied so rapidly that his section was over-run. His pasture disappeared. He sought to wipe them out, but they increased by hundreds then by thousands. There was nothing left for his stock to feed on, so he had to get rid of it, many of his cattle perishing on the bare fields nibbled to the earth by the rabbits. Thus rabbits ate him out of house and home.

Passengers on the "Carinthia" cruise around the world via the Southern Hemisphere which leaves New York next January will be driven to the country sections outside Sydney where they may view rabbits in herds—also the methods being employed to destroy them. Poisoned food and water kill many of them. Rabbits killed in this manner are skinned and then the bodies are buried. One day as many as three million rabbits were killed by poison at one water hole. The payment of bounties proves effective and gives a good living to many men.

Rabbit-proof fences are proving successful. Some of these fences are hundreds of miles long with gates at intervals of a mile or more. There is a heavy penalty for leaving one of these gates open. The rabbit fences of Australia would reach several times around the earth.

Two hundred cats—free of rabbits—were turned loose in Western Australia to combat the pest in that part of the country. The cats fraternized with the rabbits, living with them on the friendliest of terms. Foxes were introduced with the same purpose in view but they multiplied and killed sheep instead of rabbits. They are now fenced against.

New South Wales once offered a reward of $125,000 to any one who would suggest or invent a means for the extermination of rabbits throughout that state. It was never claimed.

Present Day Opportunities

Goods At Prices Now Prevailing Should Sell Readily

The low prices now prevailing on practically all kinds of goods represent a wonderful buying opportunity for our people. The idea that goods could be sold at such prices would have seemed preposterous three years ago. It may seem equally impossible three years from now if goods were sold in 1932 at these figures.

The people are making a mistake if they do not buy freely when such bargains are offered. But the public will not fully realize the value of these opportunities unless the detailed facts about them are constantly told through advertising. Goods at present prices ought to sell readily if well advertised.

1932 Dairy Production.

A decrease of about 9 per cent in the creamery butter production of the province for 1932 in comparison with 1931, is recorded in the preliminary statement of dairy production from the provincial dairy branch. The preliminary estimate for 1932 shows a total of 20,850,000-lbs., as compared with the all-time record of 1931, of 22,957,922-lbs. There was, however, a considerable increase in the manufacture of cheese, the preliminary 1932 figure showing a total of 1,435,000-lbs. as to 1,040,588-lbs. for 1931.

The total value of all dairy products, of course, shows a very heavy decline, owing chiefly to the low price levels reached during the year and partly to the smaller number of cows milked during the year. The total value estimated for 1932 is placed at $11,650,000, compared with $15,750,000, a decrease of about 26 per cent, and the lowest value figure shown since 1914.

One of the bright spots of the report for 1932 is the fact that a splendid increase is shown in the amount of butterfat graded into the "special" grade, with a corresponding decrease in the amounts graded into the lower grades. The total amount graded "special" in 1932 was 9,382,694-lbs., compared with 8,233,750-lbs. in 1931, an increase from 13.7 per cent of the total in 1931 to 58.7 per cent in 1932. The amount graded "first" dropped from 39.9 per cent to 35.6 per cent in 1932, and the amount graded "second" dropped from 6.8 per cent to 4.9 per cent. The estimated average price to patrons dropped from 25.2 cents for "special" to 14.5 cents, and for all grades the average dropped from 18.4 cents to 13.5 cents. Under this year's (1932) low price level, the spread in prices paid for butterfat in the different grades meant relatively more to the producer than would be the case in normal years.

The following table gives particulars of dairy products for 1932 and 1931. The figures for 1932 are subject to a slight change when final returns for the year are received:

Large Number Women Take Homestead Land

Almost a third of the homesteads taken up in Alberta since July 2nd, 1931, under the new government regulations, have been secured by women, according to the agricultural department of the C.N.R. The number of homesteads taken up by women in that period is 2,292, compared with 5,012 taken by men. When Alberta took over its own lands from federal control, the regulations governing the homesteading rights were changed to provide for a 3-year residence in the province before entry. For homestead land could be used by men, but women were also allowed women, whether single, married or widows, to take up land.

Alberta News Items.Provincial Seed Fair.

One of the largest displays of high quality seed grain ever gathered in the province, appeared last week in the provincial seed fair at Edmonton. Some 630 entries were made for the fair, including 316 entries from just grain clubs, in wheat, oats and barley. There were 65 entries in wheat classes alone. One interesting exhibit was the display of corn in the various corn classes, more than 1,200 ears being on display. Another feature was the visit of some 60 boys, members of junior grain clubs, who were the guests of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce for three days in that city.

Workers Accidents.

During 1932 there was a substantial decrease in accidents among the workers in the province, according to the provincial workmen's compensation board. The figure for 1932 is 8,974, compared with 10,050 for the previous year. Greater care and improved methods in industry caused the decrease.

Joint Stock Companies.

Joint stock companies organized in the province during 1932 totalled 127, compared with 179 for 1931.

Honey Production.

A decrease in honey production in the province was recorded last year, which was not a favorable year for this crop. Total production was 550,000-lbs., as to 915,000-lbs. for 1931.

Shipments of Turkeys.

Something like 4,000,000-lbs. of turkeys were marketed in the province during the past year, according to the provincial poultry commissioner. About 123 carloads were shipped to eastern and western markets.

Alberta Entries For Regina.

Alberta's first entrant in the world grain congress to be held at Regina this summer, is Harold Moore, of Bindloss, who is to show a sample of the crested wheat grass he has been developing during the past few years, and which has bright prospects as a crop for restoration of the ranges. Other entries already made include one of 2-rowed barley from Norman Peck, of Leduc, and entries from Hadlington Bros., Lethbridge, in wheat. Entries for Regina close January 31st. It is anticipated that there will be some 200 entries from Alberta. The provincial department of agriculture has agreed to pay half the entry fee on all approved exhibits from the provinces. The full entry fees are $3.00 in classes with from $2,400 to $6,500 in prize money, and $1.50 in the lower classes.

Native Sons of Glasgow arranged to the 10th Convention of their Association in the Scottish city have been.

For the first time in the history of Didsbury, visitors will enter from all over the world for a monster celebration July 15-22.

John Findlay, who is by way of being the all time big game hunter of the world, arrived at Vancouver recently aboard the "Empress of Russia," enroute to England "a little rest." He adds to his big game hunting the disciplining of Malay head-butters, who disconcert the white man's laws. "One raid we made," said Mr. Findlay, "left a trail of twenty dead men."

Canadian Pacific low rate bargain return trips, which have been a very successful feature of the company's operation this year, will include one to the Maritime Provinces July 22, when Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will be covered in round trips to take in most of the show places of the two provinces. The trip will be varied by a sea passage to the new steamship "Princess" across the Bay of Fundy to the Land of Evangeline.

A mile-a-one, though rare, is not unique, but when it is made by a lady and for the first time on the course it rates a headline. This was done by Mrs. Guy LaPrairie on the 150-yard par three hole at the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club Course at Sorbus near Montreal recently.

Here and There

A total of 123 million lbs. and from 10 to 15 million more during the season, according to the 1931 Census, the quantity of grain will be by Canadian Prairie production.

Grain with which grain in Canada during September is considered to be one of the most standing favorable events in the Canadian economic situation, according to a report recently issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Popularity of Canadian tobacco in the United Kingdom is increasing. For the eight months to August last, 8,568,742 lbs. of Canadian tobacco valued at $22,157,333 was exported to Great Britain as compared with 4,917,124 lbs. valued at $14,293,892 exported in the same period of 1931.

The Canadian silver production in 1931 was approximately 200 million ounces, or 100 per cent of the world's computed production of 196 million ounces. Canada has for many years ranked third amongst the silver-producing countries of the world, being exceeded by Mexico and the United States.

New Brunswick is to stage the North American Cover Day International Trials as an annual sporting event. Success of two days' trial concluded at Fredericton recently, has brought about formation of a permanent dog fanciers and owners association which has fixed dates for 1933.

Photographs of Bangkok's shrines, temples, statues and other places of interest in Siam taken during world cruises by Canadian Pacific liners, are being taken to Bangkok for King Prajadhipok by the Siamese Consul-General in Canada, who called for the Far East on the Empress of Asia recently.

"I am not running away from the election. I am out of politics and have no voice in the district of Columbia. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the famous United States war-time President, arrived at Banff Springs Hotel recently, where she stopped en route to Tokyo where she is attending the marriage of a family connection. Mrs. Wilson married on to stay from Lake Louise as part of her tour of the Canadian Rockies."

"I have never seen a more beautiful country or enjoyed a visit more," said Philip Colby, Master, British Secretary of the Colonies, as he said fare well to British Columbia when boarding the Canadian Pacific Imperial Limited on his way to Calgary. He enjoyed his Canadian sport fishing in that province where he and his party took four fine fish, including a 17-pound salmon."

BEATTY MEETS SCOUTS

Honesty, courage and modesty are the cardinal virtues that make for success and they should be the ideal of every Canadian boy, said E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in addressing the Montreal District Scout Council at their headquarters in the city recently. Mr. Beatty, while speaking in his capacity as president of the Canadian Council of the Boy Scouts of America, stressed the importance of honesty, courage and modesty, which he had been presenting with a copy of the new Scout song book, "Songs for Canadian Boys." The appeal of this book is to all classes of boys and girls, to adults and to the English-speaking world generally. Some of the finest poems in the language are included, making the book an anthology in itself. The songs include those common to the English, songs of Canada, French and Scottish Ireland. Also the French-Canadian songs, French and English, are included, as are the songs of the British Empire, which he had been presenting our songs. The French-Canadian song group have scholarly English translations by J. Murray Gibbon. It is a book that would adorn the shelves of any library. Mr. Beatty made a complete inspection of the Scouts' Montreal premises and expressed lively interest in the boy shop where toys are being put into shape and renovated for distribution among the poor and destitute children at Christmas. Photographs show him among the boys at work in the shop.

New Uniform

British Tommy To Be Clothed In More Comfortable Fashion

The Dominion troops set an example in the old Country during the war of uniforms, being utility and comfort rather than parade ground smartness. The new uniforms intended for the British army which were shown in London by the war office are more easy wearing than anything conceived of before. They suggest Boy Scouts and week-end hikers more than the old-style of His Majesty's regiments.

The cap is not the stiff, peaked variety. It is a hat with wide brim giving shade to eyes and neck and it is of a soft material and can be rolled up and put in the pocket. It has no chin strap or other kind of fastener and one imagines that if a line of soldiers are on parade every hat will be at a different angle and every brim will be flapping in the wind.

Instead of the tight tunic with thick collar buttoning close up the neck the new jacket is loose fitting and has an open neck. It has pouch pockets and the buttons are of gun metal instead of brass which needs to be polished.

Life Has Been Exciting

Former British War Secretary Has Always Lived Dangerously

Major-General the Right Hon. Sir John Seely, former Secretary of War and Under Secretary for Air, attained his 65th birthday recently, much to the surprise of everyone, especially himself. He has always lived dangerously and has had many hairbreadth escapes. Among his many thrilling experiences are falling a sheer 200 feet down a cliff, facing a hostile rifle at 15 yards, when a mine seemed impossible, and escaping from a plane when the petrol tank exploded at an altitude of 4,000 feet. His book of personal adventures makes exciting reading.

Singing Fiddler Of
Lost Hope Hollow

And Melodist From Kentucky To Attend Song Festival In London

On his way to attend the National Folk Song Festival in Albert Hall, London, singing fiddler of Lost Hope Hollow has sailed on the Cunarder "Sancarra" from New York. This first minister of the Southern Appalachian Mountains will be a featured performer at the festival.

Mr. Setters, who is now more than seventy years of age, was blind for sixty years. Early in youth he became blind by the violin. Of English stock, he learned the songs and tunes of England from his parents and other members of his family, and has since carried them in his head. He made a specialty of Elizabethan ballads which had been handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation.

A few years ago while S. L. Rothwell, "Rocky" was lecturing in such Kentucky, he heard Setters play and was instrumental in bringing him to the attention of the American public. Since then he has been on the air several times, singing his songs and playing the violin in a way that has brought delight to thousands of radio listeners.

Recently recovering his sight, the world is all new to him. He looks forward with keen delight to his visit in England. He is eager to see a "dread and holy of beauty bright," a "knight with a milky-white steed and a gypsy queen," like his old friend Melodist, who he met in the old England of three hundred years ago.

Although unfamiliar with written notes, Mr. Setters is a born musician. His skill has been described as immitable. He bows in the left hand, a very unusual accomplishment for a violin player.

The aged musician inherits his love of music from his grandfather, who was the first wandering music teacher in the mountains of Kentucky.

One of his hobbies is to tell of his own life, but he is interrupted by his own singing. He insists on singing a ballad to the end so that "folks will know if the pictures was joined in wedlock to the love of her heart," or if a cruel lord separated her from the one she loved. He is unfamiliar with modern slang and his speech is well-flavored.

On his trip to England he will carry his "wandering cellother" in a home-made hickory basket. He will also carry a gourd from which he will drink water, even while in the land of brown stout and amber ale. He still carries his fiddle in a cloth poke just as he did years ago when he roamed or was led over the high hills of Kentucky, often being the entire orchestra at a barn dance or a house party. He will be accompanied on his tour by Miss Jean Thomas, of 17 East 8th Street, New York, founder of the American Folk Song Society, which Percy Mackaye, Ida M. Tarbell, Vincent Allen White, Stephen Vincent Benet, Otto H. Kahn, Evelyn S. Cobb, Deema Taylor, and Alice Hegan Rice are active members. Miss Thomas has written newspaper articles about Mr. Setters years before he came to the attention of "Rocky."

When Mr. Setters returns from England he intends to retire to his old windowless cabin at Lost Hope Hollow, in the Kentucky hills, there to ponder over the great questions he viewed in the "outside world."

Cheapering the Dollar

United States Senator Favors Temporary Suspension Of Gold Standard

United States Senator Ellis G. Smith, Democrat from South Carolina, told newspapermen he favored a "temporary suspension" of the gold standard by the United States to "cheaper the dollar and increase commodity prices."

As an example, he said cotton was selling for 11 cents a pound in Liverpool, but that this meant only five cents in the United States by the time exchange had been made.

"Cheapering the dollar by suspending the gold standard temporarily," Smith concluded, "would raise commodity prices and aid the farmer and industry."

Spanish Cabinet Criticized

But Republicans Come To Defence Of Author Ministers

Criticism of the new Republican cabinet of Spain on the ground that half of its members are authors has brought a reply from champions of the new regime. They declare that Blasius Danes, the novelist, with his many political activities proved that all authors are not always dreamy and impractical persons. They also point out that Premier MacDonald of England, Mussolini, Lenin, Trotsky, and others were journalists before they became powers in their countries.

Relief Commission

Saskatchewan Body To Accept Responsibility For Unemployed Girls

The Saskatchewan relief commission accepts full responsibility for single girls physically able to accept positions on farms, once they are placed.

This is the interpretation placed on the agreement forwarded from Ottawa following a series of conferences between provincial government and relief commission officials, and was given by C. B. Daniel, general manager of the Saskatchewan relief commission.

The commission assumes no responsibility for such persons until they are actually placed. They remain a charge on the municipality, town or village until such time.

The commission is empowered pending placement, to pay to accepted organization such as municipalities and relief committees, the actual cost of food and shelter for single homeless unemployed men and women, physically fitted to accept work on farms, or in the case of men, to enter a concentration camp, providing such aggregate food, clothing and shelter allowance does not exceed 40 cents per man-day.

Ottawa has been asked by the commission seeking clarification on the question as to whether single unemployed girls may be placed in city homes under the government assisted scheme, and also whether the commission may place them with organization such as the Y.W.C.A. and pay up to 40 cents per day for their keep.

Watch Returned By Thief

Accusing Ticks Have Battered Him For Thirty Years

For 30 years a watch has ticked the guilt of a man of Düsseldorf, Germany. Unable to stand the accusing ticks any longer, the thief has just sent it to the police anonymously with a note explaining that he had taken the timepiece from the table at the bedside of a sleeping man. He added that he hoped the man was still alive because it was certain that the robbed one would be pleased to get the watch as the watch was to get rid of it.

Pharos, Capitan, and the Pharos

Canadian Tobacco Exports

Canadian Grow Tobacco Is In Great Demand In The British Isles

Tobacco grown in Canada is becoming more popular among smokers in the British Isles, who are notable for their discriminating taste in the use of exports of Canadian tobaccos from January 1 to October 31, 1932, totaled 9,056,350 pounds to the British Isles, a considerable increase over the total amount shipped to the British market in 1931 and more than three times as much as sold there in 1929. Canadian bright flue-cured tobacco is the principal variety demanded by buyers in the British Isles. This is grown in Southwestern Ontario.

As a result of trade agreements between Canada and Britain, which were drafted at the Imperial Economic Conference held in Ottawa last summer, it is expected that more Canadian tobacco will find a market in the Old Country.

Tobacco production has greatly increased in Canada in recent years. In 1931 the total production was 51,390,000 pounds from 55,000 acres. In 1932 the total production was only 13,240,000 pounds from 11,809 acres. Figures for the 1932 production are not yet available, but a preliminary survey indicates it will be about the same as in 1931.

German Shepherd Dog

Ancestry In Present Form Dates Back Nearly 8,000 Years

Although there are persons who still insist that the German shepherd dog is part wolf, this statement was long ago emphatically disproved by Albert Puyon Tephone, noted writer of stories about dogs. "All dogs are descended from the wolf or some wolf-like animal," Mr. Tephone said. "But the German shepherd dog traces his canine ancestry back, pure from any wolf strain, for perhaps a longer period than does any other popular dog. From bones and fossil remains, Stenophant has established the fact that the German shepherd dog existed in practically his present form in 5700 B.C., nearly 8,000 years ago."

Wireless Telephony

Will It In Time Supplant The Old Morse Code?

Wireless telephony has swept away much of the usefulness of Morse code. And now comes the wireless telegraph. The British post office telephone system is being taken by the teleprinter.

But I think it will be a long time before they kill the romance of the Morse code in the public eye.

The first words ever tapped out by Morse were "What hath God Wrought?" They were sent from Washington to Baltimore on May 24, 1844, by Samuel Morse, whose electromagnetic telegraph was regarded as a world scheme—until he succeeded. The most important message next transmitted was from a ship in distress—the "C Q D" which signified "Come Quickly, Danger."

But nowadays if an airman is in distress, he does not send out the "S O S." He just speaks the word "Mayday" into his wireless telephone. That word is said to have been a corruption of the French "M'aidez" (Help Me).

No Premium On Gold

Vancouver Banker Had Edge On United States Citizen

A United States citizen presented some bills, silver dollars and several $5 gold pieces of his country's currency at a Vancouver bank. He got 39 cents premium on the dollar for his bills, eight cents on his silver and nothing on his gold.

He protested against the discrimination against gold in favor of paper, but the banker explained: "Your gold pieces are worth no more to us than Canadian gold pieces of the same face value. We will give $5 in Canadian bills for a $5 Canadian gold piece, and we can give no more for an American gold piece of the same amount."

But I thought you were paying a premium on gold?" "On raw gold from the mines," replied the banker.

"And, by the way," stated the banker, "you will have to leave the gold pieces in the bank. It is illegal to take gold out of Canada without a Government license."

CHAPTER III. A Call To Vengeance

During that dash down the Mackenzie, Alon's thoughts were not enviable. "They used Margaret Fournier as a means of mauling their getaway from the steamer. It worked so well that they might try the idea again. They might try to capture Joyce and use her as a sort of hostage to protect themselves."

But somehow he did not greatly care they would do this. He remembered the gun she always carried, his own gift to her on her twentieth birthday. A black automatic, a thing thing like a toy, it nevertheless was blunt and effective as a terror building. That big red-bearded hunter who had threatened to put a bullet "square" between the eyes of Margaret Fournier, would likely get one between his own if he tried any brutality with Joyce MacMillan.

To Alan it seemed pretty clear that Bill in his haste and excitement had made a mistake about those men being strangers to every one aboard the steamer. It didn't look possible. They knew this country, knew it intimately. It took years to learn the ins and outs of so huge a region. But they knew.

Alan concluded: "They aren't strangers, of course. Bill just made a mistake."

Half-hidden between two blanket packs Constable Whipple sat, angling his rifle, peering about anxiously, as though at any moment he expected to meet the outlaw canoes here on the Mackenzie. Alan watched him with something of scorn in his eyes. Whipple was constantly spying upon the other men, listening with long ears, reporting everything that happened and a lot that did not.

Forty miles below Endurance, sweeping north to shore around a great bend, Alan looked ahead and sighted the Midnight Star out in midstream, plowing steadily up south. At his gesture Pedemunt seaward the launch and snubbed its headlong speed, and Bill began unslashing one of the canoes. As the two craft drew nearer, Alan rose up and signaled that he wished to come aboard the steamer. The boat stopped, a ladder was let down. Paddling across in the birch-bark, he and Bill hurried up on deck.

Margaret Fournier was safely back on board. Several of the men, hastily patching one of the smashed canoes, had followed up the Alouka a mile and found her on a willow island where the bandits had set her off.

When Alan came on deck, almost his first sight was of Jimmy Montgomery's little girl, perched upon a pile of cargo, showered with care and attention from every one. As he glanced at the tiny golden-haired tot, Alan thought of her mother dying less than a year ago, of her young father cut down today by an outlaw's bullet; and he had a swift vision of the bleak orphanage, the friendless and homeless life, which lay ahead of her, now that Jimmy was dead. He was not deceived by the attentions she was getting now. Every one was all sympathy for her today, but that would count mighty quick; and then she'd be thrown into some orphanage, maybe along with half-breed and Indian children. Alan thought, "She's Jimmy's child; Jimmy was my partner; it's up to me to do something about her."

With nothing more definite than this in mind, he directed Ashman, the white-haired skipper "You put her off at Endurance tonight. Give her to Elizabeth. Say I'll be back in two or three days."

Following the old captain, he stepped softly, but in hand, into the one well-fitted cabin of the steamer. He remembered Jimmy as a trail partner and a quiet gentle soul and the most utterly fearless man he had ever known. Stone silent he stood beside the berth looking down for the space of half a minute, sick at heart, his eyes blurring. Why had it been Jimmy who was cut down?—a young man, a young father, the best and bravest of them all.

Then like a small whisper in his ears, a thought came, edged with pride in Jimmy and the manner of his death:

"You were the only one who drew a gun. You knew they'd kill you with a hot-gun against six rifles; but you stood up and shot. You were always that kind, and so was Curt. Now you're both gone; now I'm alone, of us three."

The desolation was unbearable. Bill following, he turned and went out of the cabin, into the sunshine of the deck. A grim mood had come over him, a mood shot through with personal and deadly intention. He was no longer merely the stern and efficient representative of the law. Vengeance, a burning and righteous vengeance, had entered his heart.

With a dozen men crowding around to listen, he questioned Skipper Ashman briefly.

Joyce Tried to Pray That Alan Was Not Leading This Patrol.

"Bill said these men were strangers. That can't be. Didn't you recognize them at all? Haven't you got some idea who they were?"

"Alan, I positively never seen a man of ten till I looked up and there they stood, plating their weapons at us. And I see just about everybody that goes up and down the river."

"And they knowed the lay of the land like a book," another man spoke up. "That's the queerest part of it."

Alan was fairly staggered. Bill had reported accurately. The men were strangers.

How under heaven could six men enter this country unknown, unseen? Then, granting they had, granting them strangers, how did they come to know the lay of the land so perfectly?—where to strike, when to strike, how to escape by a straight shoot to their own superlative refuge, the Thal-Azob.

In all his years of police service he had never met quite so dark a circumstance as this.

As he and Bill went down the ladder, the rail was lined with people wishing them a quick capture, wishing the criminals a swift and speedy justice. Alan did not hear, did not care. But as he stepped into the canoe and with a short cut, skimming toward the launch, he did hear one voice from some man on the steamer; and it rang in his ears like a croak of evil prophecy:

"Going after men like them, Alan Baker, you'd better take your luck along!"

At the MacMillan trading post Joyce had lighted candles in the kitchen and trading hall. Though she hardly knew just when her father would return from his air-buying trip, she had kindled a comfortable fire in his bedroom and had prepared a supper of scones and breaded mushrooms and wildflower plums which she herself had shot that morning.

As she stood tiptoe at a pantry shelf, away from the crackle and sough of the hearth stove, she heard some peculiar noise somewhere out in the night. She went over to the window and there heard it more distinctly—a faint drone that rose and fell with the ground winds drifting out of the spruces.

The puzzling sound drew louder, plainer. Then suddenly Joyce knew. The police launch! Coming up the Big Alouka. Coming slowly because of the treacherous channel, but driving on through the twilight in spite of the danger.

That launch went out only on matters of importance. And this patrol must be very important, to bring the men up a perilous river at this hour.

Throwing a cape about her shoulders, she ran through the trading hall, out into the sharp pin-pointed air, down to the canoe landing at the river bank.

As she stood on the mud-filmed plank, with the whispering breeze molding cape and dress closely about her vigorous young body, Joyce tried to pray that Alan was not leading this patrol. Her girlish pride was crying out that she did not want to see Alan Baker. Her rational mind was warning that it would be better for her if she never saw him again at all. But no pride or rationalizing could beat down the secret throbbing expectancy of meeting Alan, of hearing his voice, in a few minutes more.

Through the whole long winter Joyce had been slowly realizing that her return to this north-west, waterways country had been a terrible mistake. Once she had been away, free of it all, with the true instinct of colonial Britons for their children, her dad and mother had sent her out to school, a solid old English institution in Ontario. When she finished, she quickly hunted up a job for herself, a place with a government bureau, where her knowledge of Indian languages and customs made her uniquely valuable in preparing pamphlets for the far northern agencies. Independent, earning a good salary, with friends and sports and work she liked, she had given up all of it and returned to this isolated fur post on a sub-Arctic river.

Her mother had died, and her father, Alon, had been killed in the competition of big companies out to "get" him, had morally gone to pieces. Alan in his letters had written her the sorry facts. Her duty, clear as a call, had spoken to her. "If you return, you may be able to stop that; you may help Dad back to where he was." And she had come.

She knew that other folk were surprised at her loyalty, and thought her foolish, and were shrugging shoulders at the hopelessness of a mere girl trying to lift Dad back to where he had sunk into. But Joyce did not consider it foolish, and she could see no great loyalty about it. Whatever his demoralization now, her father had been the best of fathers to her. Looking at him not a far MacMillan above the chief, he had been a man, a man, she could realize, in her own womanhood, that he had been the best of husbands to her mother. She felt it was her mother's death; the inconceivable tragedy of God withdrawing his hand, which really had broken sturdy Dad MacMillan.

And Joyce was beginning to realize, as the slow months passed, that her patient battle was anything but futile. Slowly, so slowly that only she herself could see it, she was winning her struggle, she was lifting her father out of his bewildered demoralization. If only she were given another season or two, she could salvage his life.

A Family Of Leaders

Lyttons Have Served Every British Monarch Since Henry IV

Not the least interesting point about the Lytton commission's report on Japan's doings in Manchuria is the fact that a Lytton was chairman. Lord Lytton is a member of that older British aristocracy which has always accepted the responsibility and duty of public service that is applied in authority.

The Lytton family has been serving every British monarch since Henry IV; each generation has contributed its talents, such as they have been, to the state. And in this it is different in tradition from such other great governing families as the Cecils, the Howards, the Sackvilles, the Spencers and the Churchills.

Changes are proposed, are accepted and are finally discarded in favor of other changes. An insular nation develops into a great empire; that empire, in turn, undergoes profound changes; that empire decides to enter into an experiment in Internationalism such as the League. Always, with a consistency that is astounding, these great families continue to produce their share of leaders. It may seem a little extravagant to say so, but we suspect that were revolution to come to Great Britain a Lytton, a Sackville or a Cecil would be found as confidential adviser to the chief commissar.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

LATE AFTERNOON

Eastward shades are shortening longer
On the meadows at our feet.
Now the need of rest is stronger
And the thought of rest is sweet
As the day is growing older
Like a rose that slowly fades,
And the creeping shadows, bolder,

Slowly wanes the careless rapture
Of the heart like waning light,
And no longing can recapture
Life's first ardor, youth's delight;
But the joy of youth still lingers
As remembered roses glow.
After Time has laid chill fingers
On the garden, swathed in snow.

Though the past's triumphant
Regions
Now in silence must retreat,
Peace has touched these twilight
Regions.

Where the thought of rest is sweet.

War Spirit Exists

The World In Need Of A New Spirit Of Confidence

"What the world needs is a new spirit of understanding and confidence," said Dr. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor), on arrival after a visit to Europe.

"We are still living in the spirit of the war, and though there are hopeful signs that we are awakening to new ideals, we still have a long way to go."

Five weeks of his tour he spent in Geneva, where he followed the League of Nations.

"With the world awaits sensational action on the part of the league, such questions as the Sino-Japanese issue in Manchuria," he said, "the statesmen at Geneva are carefully considering and gradually coming to understand every aspect of the situation moving gradually and diplomatically to a solution."

Dr. Gordon expressed the opinion the present system of finance is breaking down. "Money should grease the wheels of industry, not impede them," he declared.

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Expeller is an ancient medicine to destroy worms.

Carstairs Wins From Didsbury

Carstairs got the best of Didsbury Friday night to the tune of 3-1 in the opening game of the Rosebud League. The light fall of snow slowed up the game, making it hard at times to follow the puck.

Johnston started the scoring for Carstairs from a scrumming. Pearson scored the second marker on a long high shot that the goalie lost in the lights. The second period was scoreless. In the final frame, Didsbury pressed hard and after seven minutes Hardy scored on a pass from back of the goal, Hugot making the play. The local boys tried Johnson repeatedly, but the visiting guardian was right on and pulled many smart saves.

Woodlock, Hugot and Moyle were outstanding for Didsbury, with Hugot and Campbell shining for Carstairs.

Carstairs: Johnson, Sheriff and C. Stuhl; Johnston, Pearson, Campbell, Boncock.

Didsbury: Russell, Moyle and McGoy; Woodlock, Hugot, Hardy, Currie, C. Geiger, Jenkins.

Herald Hockey Team Beats Didsbury 3--1

The best hockey of the season was dished up Saturday night when the Calgary Herald team trounced Didsbury 3-1 in a hard-fought battle that kept the fans on edge throughout. The Herald played fast, aggressive hockey, with Vares, Forsy and Cronie displaying some neat stick handling that frequently carried them to the goalmouth, only to be out-guessed by Russell, who turned in a sparkling performance between the Didsbury leadpines.

Calgary dominated the play in the first period, Cronie, on a pretty pass, scoring after 4 minutes. Woodlock took a pass from Bercht to even matters, but the visitors again took the lead when Pogoraro beat Russell on an assist from Snowden. Forsy took a rest for tripping Hugot just as that flashy right-winger was thro' with only the goalie to beat.

The second period found the boys hitting a faster clip, with the locals having a slight edge. Moyle was banished for tripping Vares and within a minute of his return to the ice was sent for another rest for the same offence. The period ended without any further score.

The final frame saw the Didsbury boys working hard for an equalizer, and Laven was called on again and again. Geiger, Hugot and Evans worked through on a pretty combination play, but Hugot lost the puck in the goalmouth when all he had to do was push it into the net. Vares got possession and after stickhandling past one defence player, slipped the rubber to Cronie, who scored on a shot that Russell had no chance of saving. Didsbury sent five men up the ice in the last 2 minutes and Laven was peppered from every angle but was equal to the occasion and the game ended: Calgary Herald 3 Didsbury 1.

Herald: Laven, Snowden, Thomson, Pryke, Eldridge, Jackson, Drabble, Pogoraro, Cronie, Forsy, Vares.

Didsbury: Russell, Moyle, Woodlock, Geiger, Hugot, Evans, Bercht, Jenkins, Hardy.

Referee: C. E. Reiber.

Reflects Change In Fashions and Habits Of Past 4 Decades

"So Big" is Barbra Stanwyck's newest Warner Bros. starring picture, which will be screened at the Opera House Monday and Thursday next, January 16th and 19th. It has been given one of the most elaborate productions ever devoted to any product of the Hollywood studios and as the story covers a period of years, the many characters appear in the costumes of the 'eighties,' the 'nineties' and 'nineteen-hundreds.' Some of the characters are played by such prominent and better actors as George Brent, Bette Davis, Mae Madison, Harlie Albright, Robt. Warwick, Alan Hale and Dorothy Peterson—not forgetting 6-year-old Dickie Moore, as prominent as as sterling as any of 'em.

Bustles, pantaloons, leg o' mutton sleeves, those strange ways in which former generations got themselves up, are sent to the life in "So Big" and then they gradually disappear as the plot moves down the years to the life of today.

"So Big" has achieved outstanding success in all the cities where it has thus far been shown.
